Footnotes
OVERANALYZE got off a quick beginning, worked out a tuck into the two path nearing the end of the homestretch, patiently stalked DELHOMME while parked just off that opponent's hind quarters, continued to do so until late on the far turn, was given his cue and issued a more earnest challenge as the field headed for the top of the stretch, fought with vigor with the previously mentioned rival from upper to midlane, had the runner up join the fracas with a furlong remaining, battled on nearly even terms from between rivals until the final seventy yards, went at it head with NORMANDY INVASASION for the final few strides and showed gameness to win the bob and thus the race. NORMANDY INVASION sat reserved for the opening half while kept off the rail, picked up interest upon departing the backstretch, unleashed a long march into contention from the three path at the seven-sixteenths marker, sped past several rivals during the ensuing furlong then ducked over to the rail, took the inside route for the rest of the way on the far turn, was back on the move outward, spinning three wide for the commencement of the stretch drive, closed in readily to become the widest of three contesting for the lead by the furlong marker, vied with that pair until deep stretch, then dueled with the winner for the last seventy yards, continued on gamely, but fell short. DELHOMME came away alertly and grabbed the lead, tucked along the rail, rated kindly with the eventual winner keeping a watchful eye from along the outside, had the rival increase the pressure in the vicinity of the quarter pole and got let out in response to the challenge, was locked up a spirited tussle with the top twosome from eighth pole until deep stretch, finished willingly though to earn the show. QUINZIEME MONARQUE darted over to the rail after the start, judiciously took the inside route around the opening bend, angled into the two path at the head of the backstretch, improved position after turning for home while never posing a threat to the first three finishers. INDY'S ILLUSION saved ground in the initial stages, angled outward about halfway around the second turn, was five wide by the three-sixteenths pole, had no rally. KEEP THE CANOLI along the inside on the far turn, faltered. IRSAAL off the inside, tired. STORMY LEN strung out three wide on the first turn, remained well off the rail throughout, drifted out wider while starting to tire at the three-eighths pole, entered the stretch with little left to offer. VEGAS NO SHOW rode the rail for the nearly three-quarters, angled into the three path and quickly backed away. MICROMANAGE towards the inside, faded after completing six furlongs.
