Footnotes
BANKING HOLIDAY unhurried along the outside, left the backstretch three wide, was nudged into the four path before reaching the three-eighths pole, when BEDROCK made his move towards the front runners, swung the widest of a tightly-bunched quartet into the lane, gradually closed in, at first under intermittent stick work, then being flashed the whip right handed, continued onward and got up near the finish line. MARINA MARKET brushed with COPPER CASCADE shortly after the start, shrugged it off and made the front nonetheless, cut the pace from the inside, under a good hold, came under intense pressure from a host of rivals leaving midpoint on the far turn, was let out and asked for run in response to the challenge, turned for home, desperately clinging to a narrow advantage and with most of the field still bearing down hard, dug in stubbornly leaving the furlong grounds but got nipped right at the wire. RIPTIDE (ARG) broke alertly, but was taken hold of and eased back a bit to take up the role of stalker, kept track of the pacesetter from the two path under a firm hold down the backstretch, was given some rein narrowing in to issue a challenge approaching the five-sixteenths pole, battled hard between rivals until the end, but had to settle for the show. BEDROCK BLUES placed along the inside soon after the start, came off the rail about midway down the backstretch, squeezed his way between foes into the three path departing the backstretch, advanced to challenge MARINA MARKET coming to the five-sixteenths pole, and eventually got outkicked. COPPER CASCADE was the creator of his troubles at the start, coming in a bit and bumping with UNDOCUMENTED then bouncing off that rival and brushing with the runner up shortly afterwards, moved up into the pocket when BEDROCK BLUES abandoned the rail near the five-eighths pole, continued to patiently track the leader taking the inside route, got called upon nearing the quarter pole but lacked the necessary stretch response. UNDOCUMENTED bumped at the start, was never in the hunt.
