Footnotes

THOR'S MJOLNOR was slow to settle into stride, brought up the back of the pack departing the backstretch from the three path, was guided over to the rail just past the three-eighths pole, remained on hold and towards the inside for the remainder of the run around the bend, turned for home stuck behind a wall of rivals, was forced to steady off the heels of LITTLE WYATT as that one angled outward in the vicinity of the three-sixteenths pole, began to pick up speed shortly afterwards, split rivals approaching the sixteenth pole to continue the quest for the front, grabbed it soon afterwards and drew clear, crossing the finish line under hand encouragement. NICK RULES was put to some hand encouragement to attain a forward post, vied for command between rivals from the nine-sixteenths pole to the quarter pole, gained a slim advantage making his way to the furlong marker, but with fresher opponents in hot pursuit, relinquished to one of them, but dug in with good courage to preserve the place. GANADOR off the inside, was urged throughout the run around the bend to keep pace with the embattled threesome just up ahead, was taken outward gradually from the five-sixteenths pole, entered the stretch from the four path, displayed a mild stretch response to grab the show. THREEANDDONEDAN unhurried along the outside for the initial half, swung five wide into upper stretch and went on to improve position. LITTLE WYATT was grabbed hold and coming inward a few steps at the start, took up residence along the inside and contently tracked the disputed pace from there, slipped off the rail near the five-sixteenths pole, waited under a good hold behind opponents for an additional sixteenth before being called upon, altered course to outside the front runners at the three-sixteenths pole, made up some ground until midstretch before flattening out. BILLY O tucked along the inside, argued for control with another pair from midpoint on the backstretch until the quarter pole, kept up the battle one on one with the runner up during the ensuing furlong and gave way. EYEESEYOU three wide, disputed the pace with another twosome for a good portion of the opening half, tired.
