Footnotes
MICROMANAGE off the inside, picked up the pace noticeably leaving the half mile pole, went by APEX and took over the role of stalker as well as the two path slightly more than halfway around the bend, was put to strong encouragement as was GULFPORT heading for the quarter pole, bid in earnest at that station and soon took over command, drew off the rest of the way, flashed the whip from the right side at two portions of the later stages of the stretch run, but being mostly kept to a brisk hand ride. APEX swerved in at the break, got pulled off MICROMANAGE in time to avert any contact, raced along the outside, was the closest pursuer to GULFPORT until getting displaced by the eventual winner in the vicinity of the three-eighths pole, was under a drive taking the three path for entrance into the stretch, proved no match for the top one but rallied willingly nonetheless to well clear of the others for place honors. GULFPORT bumped lightly with EL DURO just out of the starting gate, rushed up under his own power after departing the chute to take charge, proved ratable cutting the pace, doing it at or near the inside, had the top one hitch up leaving the three-eighths pole, got called upon to match tactics with the winner as the twosome approached the end of the bend, fell back shortly into the stretch run, then tired in the final furlong. EL DURO made contact with GULFPORT a stride or so out of the gate, took the inside route, had already the whip twice from the right side before cutting the corner into the lane, bobbed and weaved between the rail and the outer rim of the two path several times proceeding his way down the stretch. PASS THE PICO between rivals in the two path on the turn, tired. FLYING BIRD stubbornly refused to yield to a strong grip being applied by the pilot on the left rein and get taken inward, twice before completing the initial quarter, then for a third time a short distance from the half mile pole, went about more smoothly once the hold was released in each instance, raced three wide on the turn from between rivals during the run around the bend, tired after going a half. PUGET SOUND loped along the rail while far behind the competition, was under some encouragement entering the stretch, made no impact. PAGE MCKENNEY underwent a four wide pursuit and gave way.
