Footnotes

ROSE'S TURN shied outward from SIGGI THE ALIEN a couple of paths at the break, sat well rated, parked in the three path, crept up coming to the five-sixteenths pole to increase the pressure, turned for home and got called upon,sliced the leader's margin down to a long neck during the ensuing furlong, eventually fought her way to the top then dug in with good determination and under good handling to preserve the decision. SMART STRIDE fought noticeably against the bit, offering up some resistance to the rating tactics being applied by the rider down the backstretch, was given some rein and acted more professionally during the run around the bend, approached the head of the stretch with good clearance along the rail and was put to encouragement to avail of the situation, fought hard down the lane to finish even terms with SIGGI THE ALIEN for place honors. SIGGI THE ALIEN broke to the outside a bit at the start, assumed a forward position, initially was rated off the pacesetter from the outside, got asked for some run issuing a challenge nearing the five-sixteenths pole, bid from between foes from that station to the wire, dug in stubbornly to win an equal share of second. NEED AN ANGEL set the pace towards the inside, came under heavy pressure coming to the quarter pole, drifted out to be two wide at the top of the lane, battled between rivals during the stretch run, held her ground well before backing away in the late stages. BID A MOON sat under a firm hold from the two path until the quarter pole, altered course to be the widest of the quintet in upper stretch, lacked the needed response.
