Footnotes

JIMMY VEGAS broke running and quickly established command, was rated on the lead, placed along the rail and under the watchful eye of RAFFINATOR, had the rider sit chilly as the aforementioned opponent bid in earnest departing the three-eighths pole to no avail, gradually shifted outward during the run around the second bend, spun from the two path into the stretch, was immediately asked for a response, left the furlong grounds, still holding a comfortable advantage, but with the runner up starting to bear down, felt that one's presence a sixteenth down the road, but dug in with good determination to safely fend that foe off. MOON RAVEN was off a beat slowly, after throwing his head to the right just as the gate was sprung open, took up position in midpack and bided time for nearly three-quarters, travelling three wide around each bend, was forced to go four wide into upper stretch, closed in on the leader during the ensuing furlong, reached the leader's hind quarters with a sixteenth to go, continued to gain ground but failed to go by. THUNDER CHIEF three wide around the opening bend, worked his way into two path upon reaching the backstretch, sat within good striking distance from there until nearing the quarter pole, turned for home three wide, altered course coming to the eighth pole for optimal racing clearance and continued willingly for the show. SMART ENUF unhurried along the outside during the opening six furlongs, finished well belatedly. RAFFINATOR patiently stalked the pacesetter around the first turn and down the backstretch, was asked for some run soon after entering the far turn, was set down in earnest an eighth of a mile later, but backed away soon afterwards. SUMMER SHARE nibbled against the bit before rating kindly in the pocket, was called upon in upper stretch but had no response. GOODBYEANDGOODLUCK saved ground to no avail.
