Footnotes

AWESOME VISION unhurried in the early stages, fought the rating tactics of the rider briefly down the backside early on, settled soon after and bided time at the back, was placed three wide through the turn, forced his way out leaning on THE PRIZE FIGHTER at the three-eighths pole creating a lane for himself rather than be on hold, spun up three wide at the quarter pole, was set down for the drive, displaced the front with a furlong remaining, displayed a good kick albeit drifting out through the final eighth shying from left handed stick work by the rider to edge away and prevail kept to task to the wire. LIVE FOR TODAY forwardly placed tracking the front three wide, came under urging at the five-sixteenths and took over the front shortly thereafter, turned for home in command, was headed nearing the eighth pole, fought on through the stretch with good energy to be well clear for place honors. THE PRIZE FIGHTER reserved off the pace, raced four wide through the turn, was lightly bumped and leaned on at the three-eighths pole by the eventual winner, came under a drive nearing the head of the lane, was unable to match strides with the top two offering no bid while able to pass tired foes for the show honors. FREUDIAN THERAPIST broke well, set the pace from the two path given some rein to work with, was displaced by the runner up coming to the head of the lane, was put to a drive at that point and steadily faded. SKY COLORS attended the pace inside, was pushed along from the five-sixteenths while saving ground, shifted into the three path at the top of the stretch and tired. MORDEN allowed to settle early on, took the overland route throughout the turn and was never a factor.
