NEW JOYSEY JEFF broke inward and bumped inside rival, unhurried while securing the rail, saved ground to the stretch and never reached contention. SIMON PURE flashed good early speed, crossed and the secured the front, controlled the early pace from the inside, resisted briefly into the final turn, then dropped back and gave way. BLAZING SUNSET checked off heels into the first turn, steadied again between rivals later on that turn, pulled his way between foes, in tight passing half-mile marker, then saved ground thereafter and failed to produce any late response.
