Footnotes

ISLAND SUNSET came away in good order, secured the pocket before departing the backstretch, was under a firm hold bidding time from the five-sixteenths marker to the quarter pole, tipped into the two path entering the stretch, drafted behind P J'S MAGICAL WINK for a majority of the next sixteenth, was cued up and altered course to be outside the front runners, closed in readily and appeared to poke a head down in front with an eighth to go, kicked away under confident handling. TAKE DOWN TWO got hooked up in a duel with P J'S MAGICAL WINK early down the backstretch, raced as a team with that opponent all the way around the turn, got heavily roused a few strides before completing the opening half, continued heads apart with the same foe from upper to midstretch, but with the winner having arrived on the scene in bold style by the eighth pole, dug in stubbornly in the late stages to salvage second. BUCKEYE HEART was guided over to the rail a short distance past the half mile pole, stayed put nearly all the way to the end of the end, angled outward under encouragement spinning into the stretch, mustered up a late burst of speed narrowing failing to get up for the place. P J'S MAGICAL WINK latched on to the second place finisher shortly after the start, raced directly side by side on the turn, was almost at the three-sixteenths pole before getting asked for his best, got outfinished in the final furlong. REAL ESTATE bobbed after the start, moved up to assume a forward position, sat perched in the three path keeping pace with the sparring front runners, came up empty when called upon. ITALIAN RULES gave chase from off the inside, failed to respond when asked to pick up the pace coming to the three-eighths pole, commenced the stretch four wide and gave way.
