Footnotes

RANGEY came out alertly, brushed shoulders with TODD COLE while getting taken over to the rail, settling there in time for the run around the opening bend, set the splits on a loosely-contested lead for nearly three-quarters, responded with some light hand urging as the runner up was ranging up leaving the five-sixteenths pole, was under the whip turning for home, had HERE COIMES DRZ whittle down the advantage throughout the stretch drive, but dug in well under good handling to prevail. HERE COMES DRZ contently stalked the winner from the outside until nearing the quarter pole, started to close the gap as the pair headed for that station, got set down entering the stretch, gained ground gradually from the top of the lane to the wire. SANTONIO D'ORO judiciously took the inside route around the first turn, got tipped outward while proceeding down the backstretch, unleashed a three wide from the three-eighths pole, maintained the momentum spinning into the stretch en route for the show. BR. ALEXANDER departed the backstretch from the four path, advanced steadily as the widest of all while travelling on the far turn, was under a full drive turning for home, continued on willingly to earn the final major check. EL DREAMER raced from along the outside and lacked the needed response. TODD COLE tucked along the inside just before reaching the end of the homestretch, tracked the front runners continuing along the inside route and faltered. KOMISAREK saved ground throughout, was under encouragement cutting the corner into the lane, came up empty. THUNDERVILLE raced from off the inside, was already under urging turning for home three wide, made no impact. KNOW THIS unprepared and in the assistant starter's hand as the field was sent off and running, spotted the field a lengthy head start after leaping up twice at the beginning, trailed throughout.
