Footnotes

COAL AND ICE bumped lightly with FRIENDS PRO a few jumps after the start, brought up the rear of the pack proceeding down the backstretch, gave chase two wide on the turn, reaching out greenly briefly about midway around it, fanned six wide, the widest of all into upper stretch, started to pick up the pace noticeably coming to the furlong marker, lugged in slightly during the ensuing sixteenth, all the while gaining ground, went by WINEKEEPER with a late surge to prove best. WINEKEEPER pressed the issue from the two path, took over the lead prior to the opening half being completed, achieving it using her own power, settled into upper stretch and got called upon, scampered away to her biggest advantage racing through the furlong grounds, had the lead cut into steadily by the eventual winner thereafter, yielded after proving powerless to match that foe's belated display of speed. FRIENDS PRO shied away from an errant TOTAL TALENT, bumped lightly with COAL AND ICE shortly afterwards, scurried into contention with a three wide run on the turn, as the tempo slowed down quite significantly, flattened out. BELIEVEINFAITH bumped lightly with THUNDERING GALE after that rival broke inward, was guided over to the rail early down the backstretch, appeared unsettled, racing side by side and in close proximity with the aforementioned rival nearing the half mile pole, bumped lightly a second time with that opponent, losing a bit amount of ground and momentum and with the rider taking hold momentarily, got angled outward leaving the five-sixteenths marker, making it into the four path in two stages with a furlong to go, lacked a solid closing response. TOTAL TALENT bobbed outward, was pulled away from the nearest foe but not before slight contact, grabbed the advantage and was guided over to the rail coming to the end of the backstretch, yielded to the runner up a couple of jumps before reaching the end of the bend, tired. GOLDEN ANNIE saved ground until the quarter pole and was no factor. THUNDERING GALE broke inward, initiating a light bump with BELIEVEINFAITH, appeared to inadvertently drift in a bit, but enough to make contact once again with the same foe, chased from two path on the turn, swung outward until five wide by the three-sixteenths pole, gave way.
