Footnotes

PRINCESS OF SYLMAR away in good order, was reserved in the two path for the opening six furlongs, availed of the opportunity and after being let out a notch, slipped into the three path midway on the turn, crept up to be perched just off the leader's hind quarters heading into the stretch, responded eagerly when given her cue, poking a head down in front of a much more energetically-handled rival by the furlong marker, shook free, being primarily briskly hand ridden, while flashed the stick from the right side at intervals during the late stages. ROYAL DELTA kept watch on ROMAN INVADER from the two path, briefly matched strides on even terms with that opponent between the first and second calls before getting eased back into the role of primary pursuer, moved when ready coming to the midway point on the turn and powered her way to the front, not needing encouragement from the pilot, approached the quarter pole with the eventual winner poised to stride, began the drive lightly hand urged, was much vigorously hand ridden during the next sixteenth, fell back by a very slim margin with an eighth to go, was put to stick work thereafter, failed to re claim the lead and had to settle for being second best. CENTRING stumbled at the start, raced three to four wide on the turn, folded. AND WHY NOT lost her footing at the start, raced from off the rail and failed to menace. ROMAN INVADER edged away to a clear advantage by the end of the chute, was rated along the inside while showing the way, had the runner up draw on even terms briefly down the backstretch, had the same foe did likewise prior to the third fraction being set, was powerless to protect the lead, backed away steadily after getting displaced.
